Rina Goldberg was a 15-year-old filmmaker who dreamed of her movie being on the big screen. She envisioned the premiere, who would be on the invite list and how it would all play out. Despite having advanced stage mitochondrial disease, she never let the disease define her. She saw the good in each day and knew what was truly important. She used writing this script as an outlet for her creative process and a way to distract from the intense medical challenges she faced daily. She wanted to produce, direct and write this movie to teach the world about friendship and 3 big messages; "Dream Big, Love Life and Be Positive." She intended to educate the world about this disease in hopes of treatment or a cure. Rina kindly, but with a zest for life, never took "No" for an answer when it came to her movie. While Rina left this world on December 29, 2010, she will always be in the director's chair.
